Why Unite New Zealand?

What's in it for you and your children?

More than you might realise as an individual. The vision of Unite New Zealand, as a movement of individuals, spouses, families, communities and a nation, is founded upon the possibility that the fullest expression of human potential may be found in the potential we enable in others. We do not surrender our individuality through unity; we discover a greater expression of it. This is the philosophical bridge between individual potential and collective purpose. Me, We.

This vision is presented through three baskets of knowledge:

THE CONSTITUTION OF NEW ZEALAND

Define · Confine · Refine

Enduring governance requires clearly established structures of authority, limitations upon the exercise of power and the preservation of the sovereignty of the people. Leadership must extend beyond the personalities of any given generation. A written Constitution establishes enduring processes through which successive generations may govern themselves, determine their own direction and progress democratically.

THE ECONOMIC REFORM OF NEW ZEALAND

Reveal · Release · Restore

An economy should serve humanity, not consume its potential. Understanding the economic system enables us to recognise the human potential lost through unnecessary financial burdens. Economic freedom restores the time, resources and opportunities through which people may strengthen their relationships, raise their children, pursue their ideas, establish enterprises and contribute to the flourishing of their communities.

THE UNITE NEW ZEALAND ACADEMY

Educate · Emancipate · Empower

The conditions for freedom must be accompanied by the intellectual capacity to exercise it. Education is a lifelong undertaking through which we acquire knowledge, deepen our understanding and develop the independence of mind to question, reason and create. Our responsibility extends beyond our own development to the transmission of knowledge and the advancement of successive generations. Leaders build leaders.
